Quaternary Sector Scenario

by Yona Friedman, United Nations University, 1979

Flash Mob

a sudden mass gathering, unanticipated except by participants who communicate electronically: the flash mob is the idiot child of our instant-communication age.

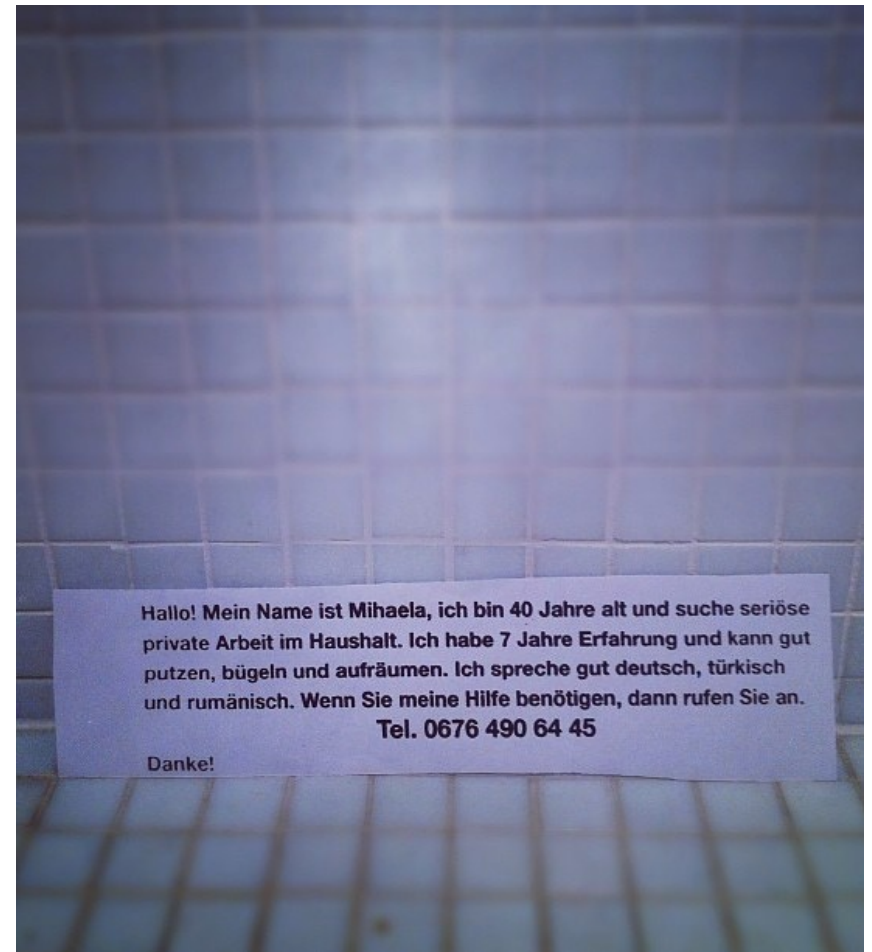

New opportunities for currently established payment instruments focused on the domestic service sector from an HR perspective.

The whole domestic service sector is situated in a fragmented market. Employer and employee find each other through recommendations by family members, friends or colleagues and this environment is mainly predominated by the black market.

Due to the fact that the majority of these working agreements are still made under illegal deals, official search and advertising are not taken into consideration.
